The Service also uses Zendesk for customer support. These tools collect information sent by your device or by our Service to you, including the web pages you visit through our Service, add-ons, your anonymized IP address, and other information that assists us in gathering feedback to improve our products and our business model. We collect and use this analytics information together with analytics information from other users so that it cannot reasonably be used (and is not used) to identify any individual user.

Cookies and similar technologies:

- When you visit the Service, we may use cookies and similar technologies like pixels, web beacons, and local storage to collect information about how you use the Service and provide features to you. Cookies are small files that make it easier for you to use content from the providers that use our Service. Your Internet browser automatically receives these files from our servers and then saves the cookies on your computer. The Service use what are known as session cookies and persistent cookies. We send several persistent cookies to your computer. Among other things, cookies allow you to access Internet content across different websites. You can change the settings on your browser so that it informs you when it accepts a cookie, or so that it does not accept any cookies at all. We recommend that your browser be set to accept cookies from the Service, as only then will you be able to use the Service. We may ask advertisers or other partners to serve ads or services to your devices, which may use cookies or similar technologies placed by us or the third party.

Log file information:

We may also collect similar information from emails sent to our users, which then help us track which emails are opened and which links are clicked by recipients. The information allows for more accurate reporting and improvement of the Service.

3. HOW WE USE YOUR INFORMATION

In addition to uses of information we describe elsewhere in this Privacy Policy, we use your data to do the following:

Enable the Service:

- We process your data, including your name, e-mail and mailing address, and payment information to process payments that you initiate when you use the Service. We further review a range of user data, including log files, IP addresses, mailing and e-mail addresses, and payment information in order to improve the Service, trouble-shoot and track issues with the Service, and identify areas for improvement.
- We use your personal data to communicate with you about the services we provide. For instance, for subscription service users, we use your contact information to notify you that your subscription will automatically be renewed soon or has expired. We also use user and payment data to handle support requests from users.
- In order to make sure our users of the Service receive payments, we engage in a payment settlement process. During this process, our payment service provider consults user data, including name, amounts owed and currency information and makes net payments to our users.

Perform credit, identity, and address checks:

- The success of our business depends on our preventing illegal or fraudulent transactions. To minimize our risks, among other processes, we compare usernames and country information against crime prevention watch lists upon registration.
- Analyze user behavior: We perform statistical and other analysis of your activities related to the Service, including your payments. We do this to gain a better understanding of how our Service is used so that we can provide you with a better, more intuitive and personalized experience and offer new products and services that may interest you.

Marketing:

- With your consent, we will use your data for marketing purposes, including to communicate with you about products, services, and other organizations and activities that may interest you. In order to tailor these communications, we evaluate your activities on the Service, often by using automated processing. In the course of using your data for marketing purposes, we will not forward it to third parties without your consent as explained in Section 6 below.

4. HOW WE SHARE YOUR INFORMATION

We will not share your information with third parties outside of the Service or its Affiliates (defined below) except as noted in this Privacy Policy or with your explicit consent.

Parties with whom we may share your information:

- The Service may share limited information with Merchants and Distribution Partners (as defined in our Terms of Service) including your name, email address, phone number (if collected) and preferred language, as well as payment or payment commitment details, including the payment amount, the payment date, and similar, only after you have made a payment or a commitment to pay to that particular Merchant or Distribution Partner. Merchants or Distribution Partners may use this data to inform you by mail, email or digital advertising of their products and/or services that might be of interest, i.e. for marketing purposes. Merchants or Distribution Partners are not permitted to share your data with any third parties. Additionally, the Service may share the results of analysis of user behavior described above with other affiliates of the Service.
- We transmit certain user data to our payment service providers, e.g. credit card billing companies, banks, risk management provider and other financial institutions. We typically transmit the payment amount and a reference number that the payment service provider associates with your payment details. We also monitor whether payments from users are received on time and provide that information to Merchants and Distribution Partners. We share name, address, and country data with our payment service providers to help us perform some of the credit and fraud risk assessments described in Section 3.
- We may share certain information regarding Service content and/or your information (including but not limited to, information from cookies, log files, device identifiers, location data, and usage data) with businesses that are legally part of Supertab AG ("Affiliates"). Affiliates may use this information to help provide, understand, and improve the Service (including by providing analytics) and Affiliates' own services (including by providing you with better and more relevant experiences).
- We also may share your information, including information from tools like cookies, log files, payment service providers, hosting providers, Google Analytics and other third-party organizations that help us connect you with the Service ("Third Party Service Providers"). Our Third Party Service Providers will be given access to your information as is reasonably necessary to provide Supertab with their services, under data processing agreements that require them, among other things, only to act on Supertab and instruction and to take sufficient technical and organizational measures to safeguard your data.
- We may also share certain information such as cookie data with third-party advertising partners. This information would allow third-party ad networks to, among other things, deliver targeted advertisements that they believe will be of most interest to you.

What happens in the event of a change of control:

- If we sell or otherwise transfer part or all of Supertab AG, its subsidiaries or affiliates, or its assets, to another organization (e.g., in the course of a transaction like a merger, acquisition, bankruptcy, dissolution, or liquidation), your information may be among the items sold or transferred. The buyer or transferee would be obligated to honor the commitments we have made in this Privacy Policy.

Responding to legal requests and preventing harm:

- We may access, preserve and share your personal data in response to a legal request (like a search warrant, court order or subpoena) if we have a good faith belief that a law, regulation, or governmental request requires us to do so. This may include responding to legal requests from jurisdictions outside of the United States where we have a good faith belief that the response is required by law in that jurisdiction, affects users in that jurisdiction, and is consistent with internationally recognized standards. We may also access, preserve, and share information when we have a good faith belief it is necessary to: detect, prevent, and address fraud and other illegal activity; to protect ourselves, you, and others, including as part of investigations; and to prevent death or imminent bodily harm. Information we receive about you may be accessed, processed, and retained for an extended period of time when it is the subject of a legal request or obligation, governmental investigation, or investigations concerning possible violations of our terms or policies, or otherwise to prevent harm.

We process personal data only with your consent (Art. 6 (1) (a) GDPR), for the performance of a contract to which you are a party or at your request for the performance of pre-contractual measures (Art. 6 (1) (b) GDPR), for the performance of a legal obligation (Art. 6 (1) (c) GDPR) or if the processing is necessary to protect our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of a third party, unless your interests or fundamental rights and freedoms which require the protection of personal data override (Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR).

Unless otherwise stated in this Privacy Policy, we store the data only for as long as is necessary to achieve the processing purpose or to fulfill our contractual or legal obligations. Such statutory retention obligations may arise in particular from commercial or tax law regulations. Such a transfer takes place in a permissible manner if the European Commission or the UK government (as applicable) has determined that an adequate level of data protection is required in such a third country. Please find a list of the European Commission's adequacy decisions here. Information regarding UK adequacy decisions can be found here.

If such an adequacy decision by the European Commission or the UK government (as applicable) does not exist, a transfer of personal data to a third country will only take place if appropriate safeguards exist pursuant to Art. 46 GDPR or if one of the conditions of Art. 49 GDPR is met.

Unless an adequacy decision is in place and otherwise specified below, we use:

III. DATA PROCESSING WHEN USING THE SUPERTAB SERVICE

Our Supertab service consists of

- your user account (<https://my.supertab.co/>), where you can view and manage all purchases and payments, and
- the user interface, which is integrated with our partners and through which you can directly purchase the content of our partners.

The following table describes what personal data is processed when you use our Supertab service. When you use our Supertab service, we collect information that you provide yourself. In addition, during your interaction with the service, we automatically collect certain information about your use of the service.

Purpose	Legal basis	Personal data processed
Processing of server log files When using our service, general information that your browser transmits to our server is initially stored automatically (i.e. not via registration). The stored data is deleted after a maximum of two years, unless there is a justified suspicion of unlawful use based on concrete indications and further examination and processing of the information is necessary for this reason. If this is the case, we will delete the information as soon as the investigation/examination is concluded. Please note: We may not be able to identify you as a data subject based on the stored information without further information. Articles 15 to 22 of the GDPR therefore do not apply pursuant to Article 11 (2) of the GDPR, unless you provide additional information that enables us to identify you to exercise your rights set out in these articles.	Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR: Legitimate interests. This processing serves the technical administration and security of our service. In addition, the log files are used to identify and resolve possible cases of fraud.	browser type/version, operating system used, page accessed, previously visited page (referrer URL), IP address, date and time of the server request, HTTP status code.
Registration/user account In order to use our service, registration is required. There are several ways to create the account and log in.	Art. 6 (1) (b) GDPR: Contractual necessity	email address, password if SSO: first and last name

1. Registration and Login by email and password You can register and log in with your e-mail address and a password. To confirm the registration, you will first receive a registration email, which you must confirm via a link (double opt-in). After registration, you can log in to your user account by providing your email address and the password used. The provision of the information is mandatory for the registration to be completed via this method and for you to be able to use the service. 2. Registration / Login via single-sign-on You also have the option to register with us using your Google or Apple account. In this case, we receive from Google or Apple (hereinafter "SSO provider") the information necessary for registration (your email address and, if applicable, your first and last name). Your password is not transmitted to us in the process. By integrating the single sign-on functionality, your web browser automatically establishes a direct connection with the server of the respective SSO provider. To log in, you will be redirected to the page of the SSO provider. There you can log in with your user data. This links your user account with the respective SSO provider to our service. We have no influence on the scope and further use of data collected by the SSO providers through the use of single sign-on. It is also possible that the respective SSO provider links the information about your login to our service to your other account information. When using the SSO services, your personal data may be transferred to the US and other third countries. Please see the "data transfer to third countries" section for further information. You can find more information about Google Log-In here: https://support.google.com/accounts/answer/112802?hl=en&co=GENIE.Platform=Desktop General information on data protection at Google can be found at: https://policies.google.com/privacy You can find more information about the Apple Log-In here: https://www.apple.com/de/privacy/features/. More information on data processing by Apple can be found here: https://www.apple.com/de/privacy/.
Purchase of Partner Content via Supertab As soon as you purchase content from one of our partners and decide to use Supertab for payment, you will be redirected to our service. In this case, we process the personal data required to process the contract and to provide the desired content. Each purchase of content via the tab is documented in your user account. There you have the possibility to view all purchases as well as the status of your tab.	Art. 6 (1) (b) GDPR: Contractual necessity	e-mail address, IP address, purchased content, price of the content, date of purchase
Payment service provider To be able to pay for the content via your tab, you must store payment information. We use the payment provider Stripe of Stripe Inc. (US) to manage and process payments. Stripe processes the respective payment information under its own responsibility and directly collects all payment details from you (e.g. credit card information, country and postal code, IP address, content purchases, price). We can only access limited personal data in	Contractual necessity	Last four digits of the credit card, date of purchase, amount/price, taxes, issuing bank, country, postal code

order to control the payments. You can find more information about data protection at Stripe here: https://stripe.com/de/privacy#translation. When using Stripe, data may be transmitted to the US or other third countries. Please note the information in the section "Data transfer to third countries". The information provided and/or collected by you during the payment process will be transmitted by us to the payment service provider, insofar as this transmission is necessary for the execution of the payment transaction.
Data transfer to our partners If you purchase content from one of our partners, Supertab transfers personal data to those partners in specific cases, as described below. The further processing of personal data by the partner as a separate data controller is subject to the partner's data privacy policy. a) Disclosure of pseudonymous data for usage analysis If you purchase content from one of our partners, for example a publisher, via Supertab, we may transmit pseudonymized usage information to this partner in specific circumstances. With this information, our partner can track that a person has consumed the specific content and has paid or will pay via Supertab. However, our partner is not allowed to link this pseudonymous usage data with other personal data (e.g., your email address). We transmit this data to inform our partner about the number and type of purchases of your content via Supertab. Further data processing is determined by the partner on its own responsibility. b) Disclosure of usage and contact data for other purposes We may ask you for permission to transmit an extended data set to our partners or other organizations. The purpose of this permission is to transmit personal data such as your name, your e-mail address, or your IP address instead of the pseudonymized usage information in order to give our partners or other organizations the opportunity to contact you directly or to take over your tab. Such transmission for the aforementioned purposes will only take place if you have consented to this. The specific purposes as well as the exact data transmitted and the exact recipients of the data can be found in the respective declaration of consent. c) Disclosure of purchase data for providing customer support If you purchase content from one of our partners, we will automatically share the necessary purchase data with our partners. This enables our partners to provide customer support services and to help you directly and efficiently if you have problems with the purchased content. Our partners are not allowed to use those purchase data for purposes other than customer support.	Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR: Legitimate interests. Legitimate interests arise from our partners. They have the legitimate interest to obtain basic information about the users that access content via Supertab services (e.g. readers of a publisher's content) in order to optimize their own offers and services. Art. 6 (1) (a) GDPR: Consent Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR: Legitimate interests. The legitimate interest from our partners and from us is to provide you with the possibility to directly contact the partner's customer support in order to solve any content-related problems directly.	Pseudonymous user information: User ID, information about purchased content (e.g. name of a specific article or 1-hour-access to all articles) e-mail address, first and last name, IP address, other data specified in the consent form Email address, purchase information (purchased content, date, number, name webpage where content was purchased)

Support Requests You have the possibility to contact us directly and send us a support request via the help section in your Supertab account. To answer your request and help you, we need your email address and a description of the problem. Without this information, we will not be able to help you. You also have the option to provide us with documents (e.g. screenshots of error messages). This information can help us to solve your problem as quickly as possible. The provision of these documents is voluntary.	Art. 6 (1) (f) GDPR: Legitimate interests. Our legitimate interest is to respond to your request and to provide you with a hassle-free user experience.	email address, description of the problem/question, screenshots/documents provided
